GREEN LIST BY THE NEW ZEALAND GOVERNMENT IN 2022

WHAT IS THE NEW ZEALAND IMMIGRATION GREEN LIST?

The Green List is a list of occupations that qualify for a fast-track to residence or have access to a work to residence pathway.

A range of jobs are on the list, including health workers, vets, engineers and ICT specialists. Some of these roles will need to be paid a minimum salary, which will be tied to the median wage, with higher pay for some roles.

The list also aims to make it easier to hire skilled migrants on an Accredited Employer Work Visa (AEWV), as accredited employers will be able to hire migrants on an AEWV if the role is on the Green List, and an employer will be able to complete the job check without proof of advertising.

GREEN LIST OCCUPATIONS

- Health and Social Service (118 roles)
- Engineering (19 roles)
- ICT, Electronics and Telecommunications (10 roles)
- Construction (4 roles)
- Primary Industries and Science (3 roles)
- Business Professionals (2 roles)

POST - STUDY WORK VISA & EMPLOYMENT

The chances of your post-study work visa will be assessed and determined at the time of your course selection. Our staff member will explain more about your chances of employment in New Zealand after the completion of your study. The Post-study work visa is valid for up to three years after the completion of your course of study. If you enter New Zealand on a student visa, the maximum period of your work visa extension will be 3 years. India and New Zealand have an entirely different industrial standard so that the students have to get upskilled to take an employment opportunity in New Zealand. Derrick Jones Management often conducts "employment workshops" that you can attend and gather experience and knowledge about different areas of business and career opportunities in New Zealand.
